Support Program for the International Chair in Cognitive Health

The International Chair in Cognitive Health, in collaboration with the Nebrija Foundation and Nebrija University, offers individuals and businesses multiple opportunities for mutual support through collaborative initiatives. Our network of knowledge and collaborative learning is designed to contribute to the transformation of businesses in today's society, with values that highlight the importance of entrepreneurs as contributors to the common good.

The International Chair in Cognitive Health supports this commitment by providing an attractive scientific, educational, academic, social, and professional environment for the development of talent among individuals linked to businesses, universities, and research centers.

By joining the Support Program for the International Chair in Cognitive Health, individuals, businesses, and institutions gain access to a network of relationships and growth opportunities for their employees, executives, and collaborators.

Furthermore, the International Chair in Cognitive Health offers the opportunity to collaborate on research in areas of interest to the company, both in basic and applied research, through research contracts and agreements or consulting services tailored to the needs of each institution.

In the pursuit of promoting symbiotic relationships between individuals, businesses, academics, universities, and research centers, the International Chair in Cognitive Health offers different participation options for individuals and legal entities.

1) Service hiring:

Any individual or company can hire consulting services, research project development or mentoring from the International Chair in Cognitive Health. Agreements will be formalized with the coordinating entity through the Nebrija Foundation, and active work will be done to create multilateral agreements between the parties involved to consolidate inter-institutional relationships.

2) Donation of funds:

Any individual or company can make an economic contribution in the form of a donation to the International Chair in Cognitive Health, formalized with the coordinating entity through the Nebrija Foundation. These donations are made under current legislation and provide tax advantages through deductions within the framework of regulations on patronage incentives. All parties involved will actively work to create collaboration agreements that consolidate inter-institutional relationships and promote joint work..
